TUFSDAY EVENING, APRIL 9, 1901.

HER FIFTH HUSBAND .- Mrs. Kath. erine Runk, of York, Pa., now the bride of Samuel S. Harold, does not look upon marriage as a failure. Sixtynine years of age, she took her fifth husbard on Sunday, when she was united in marriage to Harold at her united in marriage to Harold at her home, in the village of Farmers, in Jackson township. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. P. Schelbamer, and was the three-bundredth at which he has officiated since he has been in the ministry. The groom, who is 38 years of age, is very fond of his vener-able bride, who, despite her years, is a well-preserved and still attractive we man. Mrs. Harold says she lived hap man. Mrs. Harold says she lived happily with her previous four bushands. The first was a farmer named Haverstick, the second was his brother, the third was a Mr. Hoffman, and the fourth was Mr. Runk. All of these sleep under mounds in the Holtzswamp Church cemetery, one of the oldest churches in that vicinity.

The wedding, which occurred at 5 o'clock in the evening, was one of the swellest social events that has taken place among the good folks of Jackson township for many days, and the gueste came in large numbers to with the correspondent and participate in guests came in large numbers to wit ness the caremony and participate in the simple rural festivities following. Mrs. Harold's other husbands left her fairly well off in the possessions of the world's goods. A cozy little home and a flucishing, well-kept farm of 10 acres are hers. None of the woman's mar-riag's was productive of offspring.
